DETAILED ACTION

1. The Amendment filed by Applicant on 12/13/2006 has been entered.

Response to Amendment/Arguments

2. Applicant's amendment and arguments filed on 12/13/2006 have been fully considered and they are found unpersuasive.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-13 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Guerin et al., U.S. Patent No. 6,780,939 (hereinafter "Guerin"). Guerin teaches a process for the preparation of hydrogenated nitrile rubbers comprising the steps of reacting a nitrile, copolymerizable diene monomer, and ruthenium/osmium carbene catalyst. See Guerin, col. 3, line 35 through col. 7, line 21. Guerin teaches a preparation of a hydrogenated NBR and a optional third monomer. Guerin further teaches a NBR having a Mw, Mooney viscosity within the claimed invention and cement filler.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Art Unit: 1713

7. Claims 14 and 15-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Guerin in view of Rau et al., U.S. Patent No. 6,187,867 (hereinafter "Rau"). Guerin differs from the present invention in that the nitrile rubber has a peroxide and a process for injection molding polymer composites into articles. Rau teaches in analogous art nitrile rubber blends comprising peroxide cross-linkers and processes for injection molding of composites to produce articles. See Rau, col. 4, lines 13-47. In view of Rau, one having an ordinary skill in the art would be motivated to modify Guerin by using an peroxide curing agents and injection molding. Such modification would be obvious because one would expect that the use of nitrile rubber composition as taught by Guerin would be similarly useful and applicable to the nitrile rubber blends taught in Rau.
